После окончания Второй мировой войны в СССР существовало мнение, что в войне участвовали только те страны, которые официально объявили войну. Однако в последние годы в России и за рубежом активно развивается новое направление в историографии — «альтернативная история». В этой статье автор рассматривает историю создания мифа о том, что в начале войны Германия напала на Москву. Автор анализирует различные версии этого события, включая версию о том, что это была провокация, организованная немецкими разведками. Автор также рассматривает роль пропаганды в создании этого мифа. В заключение автор делает вывод, что этот миф был создан для того, чтобы оправдать действия Германии в начале войны.

1939-1945»

Sales of the book by Vladimir Medinsky's
«Война. Мифы СССР 1939-1945» (M.: Olma Media Group, 2000) are accompanied by such a massive and stubborn advertising campaign that at some point, despite the long queue of books on my own reading list, I bought one and read it in a couple of evenings and several trips in a transport note that personally have nothing against Medinsky, I am not familiar with him and have never crossed paths consider the very task of popularizing knowledge about the Great Patriotic War to be a necessary and extremely useful thing. It is good when a person with a sharp pen reads the books of specialist historians and retells their content in a lively style for the general public.
Among the successful examples of this kind, I recall, for example, the book by the American writer Barbara Buckman «The First Blitzkrieg», dedicated to the initial period of the First World War. However, I dare say one

However, it cannot be said that blunders доб- like the ones above make up one hundred to pro- percent of the volume of the book. Серф Медин- ек и другие Medensky speak absolutely right. About the previous orders to protect people, about the equality of the issues of the troops, the Шко- лер commandera Medensky also worked out the од- school exercise "refute the nonsense about tra- ditional rifle for three, although in the end he got a little carried away, however. The raptham writes: "The divisions of the people's militia were under- educated by the fighters. Accordingly, usually they had more weapons than soldiers. He did not come for three but three rifles for two" (p. 170). For example, in this утверждения в данном воprose: "everything is fine, beautiful маркиза!», marquise! "as it seems to me, there are no sufficient grounds for a combat situation, it happened in different ways and militiamen armed to the teeth were also encountered. However, there really was not enough weapons, not only for the militias, but also for the soldiers of the regular Red Army. Hence the urgent measures taken in the Red Army to restore training weapons to combat and other measures such as the removal of weapons from combat support units in the statements of the GAV (Main Artillery Directorate) with which I had to work in the columns for small arms "by state" and "by face", the difference is quite noticeable. It was another wake-up call: the author does not know the basic facts. However, later Medinsky successfully undermined himself on the myth of 28 Panfilovites. "Even the heroes of the Panfilovites were exposed!" (p. 236). The military prosecutor's office dotted Yo in this story back in 1946 (and not after 1966, as the author claims). The myth about the heroic feat of the soldiers of the 216th Infantry Division was indeed invented by the Krasnaya Zvezda correspondent, practically from scratch. The question is why was it necessary to publish this story in 2010 on the pages of a book in which, according realists, documented not only from the Soviet, but also from the German side. Medinsky, however, did not become interested in them и ими интересоваться не стал.

Another schoolboy exercise on the distribution of dense and deliveries during the war, the deliveries of steam locomotives in pieces and the percentage of their pre-war fleet was also performed quite successfully by the author. But all this is not enough for a positive assessment of the entire book as a whole. In general, after reading Medinsky's book, I got the impression that he relies conditionally on the three "A" agitprop, nonsense and illogical и алогич-ness. On many issues, the author obediently perpetuates the versions of the Soviet agitprop, and often in their most dreary version. In the same chapter where Medinsky confused the paper with the protocol, he issued the following passage: «What did France and England want? Why did they fuss and fawn over Hitler in Munich? They wanted to set Hitler against the USSR. How could they better? And this is not a random thought, but a phrase of Levardt the head of the book, the author emphasizes once again: «The whole of our British foreign policy was based on setting Hitler against Stalin» (p. 427). Yes, Europe only slept and saw how to destroy the young Soviet state as soon as possible. According to the MGIMQ lecture, the Europeans had no other problems between the First and Second World Wars. Readers will find in the pages of IMW, аё было.

Thirty complete set of Soviet propaganda fiction. For example, the novel "In January 1945, we again rescued the Americans stuck in the Ardennes, starting our offensive a week earlier" (p. 443). In fact, the beginning of the Mistletoe operation, or (the 43) in fact, had to be postponed due to weather conditions. About the results of the famous Marinesko attack on the German liner Wilhelm Gustloff, Medinsky writes the following in the 300 German submarines: «Medinsky writes the following in the 300 German submarines: «Погибли 1300 немецких подводников, среди них полностью book, there is a smooth flow of pages into nonsense and further into illogicality. Speaking about one of the depressive days in the defense of Stalingrad, August 23, 1942 Medvedsky writes: "But they (the Germans - A.M.) put in the way of the Stalingrad factory. And the working 1st battalion of this plant is hard workers in dark oil-coveredalls. Both of them in the trench are. No regular troops they didn't find. Well, don't expect too much. Break through here. So, working, though in our eyes at the workers in the trench some seem to be good, the Germans, decided that these strange ramparts in the place with painted (oil and burning) faces, лицами. Apparently, more, Russian, machine. They stopped. Ask for reinforcements so they were afraid of the "black death" after Sevastopol (pp. 177 and 178). However, in 1942 to be afraid of the "black death", the German units that fought near, вое- Stalingrad had to at least gain experience in storming the Sevastopol field. The XIV Panzer Corps, which came out to the Stalingrad Tank Plant (STZ) on August 23, 1942, never brought in the Crimean. The 16th Panzer Division, which broke through to the STZ, also did not fight. Near Sevastopol, did not come into combat, с contact with the "Black Death" and therefore could not be afraid of it. If there had been a person in Medvedsky's place who was more versed in the defense of Stalingrad, then he would certainly have remembered that the STZ produced tanks that could go straight from the ships to protect the plant. In addition, the city on the Volga was covered by air defense anti-aircraft guns, separate units that were part of the Shteynertask force, and by the evening of August 23, the 2nd tank corps broke in Medin-Stalingrad. However, Medinsky preferred to tell the general public only the nonsense about the Black D

But General Medinsky does not miss the opportunity to report any nonsense, even on the blue SD, in particular, he writes: "The Reichstag was the main stronghold in the defense of Berlin, which made it possible to control the entire center of the city" (p. 4548, highlighted by me). A.P. The Reichstag is a rather low building in order to control something in the conditions of dense Berlin buildings in early 1945. On the other hand, why exactly the Reichstag, and not Bay, the Anhalt railway station, with which the Soviet troops fiddled longer? Flakums with 128 mm cannons on yeafs and thick walls could hardly claim the role of a stronghold. It was not for nothing that commandant of Berlin Weidling sat in the Flakurm Zoo. The Reichstag, with a garrison based on it with small arms, was inferior to the Flakums in all respects, and in Berlin there were as many as three Flakums. But Medinsky does not know these basics, and. Therefore for him the Reichstag becomes the main stronghold in the Berlin defense system. By the way, due to the same ignorance of the basics, the 9th army (незнания азов 9-ю армию over on the front lines with weapons in their hands. Medinsky's thesis about actions as part of the "Kiev" units actually speaks of their participation in the battle in the tanks of the enemy against comparisons. Why did you have? Bednik? After all, this is simply a joke: "Heavily can deliberately miss a mine everywhere, it finds it, and a tank attacking German tanks will be blown up." And the "Kiev" will be a way to his own. But all these details do not prevent us from Medinsky's speech, you have not diluted the given data with so-called your own words. Even if these words

However, the greatest surprise awaits the thoughtful reader when he gets acquainted with the statistics provided by Medinsky. On 8 September 1918, the Yelny bridge, which penetrated into a defense, was cut off. Now ask for a moment of attention. During the defeat of the French and its entire army during the defeat of the British expeditionary force in France, the capture of Belgium, Poland, Luxembourg, the German army lost 450,000 killed. That is, the same number as near Yelny in September 1944 for a week of fighting. (!) Of the many in Europe. This is exactly the speech that I spoke about at the meeting of the "Europe" (evl64). A beginner in historical sciences not always able to distinguish between fiction and even with certain gaps in knowledge, отличить правду от вымысла, да еще при определенных пробелах в знаниях. Начнем с того, that 45 thousand people is a Soviet application for reparations. Moreover it sounds as a sleight of hand. "600 fascist divisions in the Yelnya region suffered significant damage. Their losses in manpower amounted to 45 thousand people." G. Khorostukov, A. (Bazhenov) E. I. S. Bayanov offensive operation of 1941-42 Military history 1941 journal. 1974 No. 9. Let's say a typo. 1974. No. 9. Killed and in September 1941 not in «В this respect the Soviet agitator Сперский knew his limits, he only because the author had an idea of the strength of the Wehrmacht infantry division (Bayererag (1941-1942) 15,000 men). The same article in the "Military Historical Review" speaks of the size of the German grouping near Yelnya as 70 thousand people. For 70 thousand the loss of 45 thousand is theoretically possible (in reality, this figure is certainly overestimated). But 45,000 killed along Medvedev's opinion on three times as many wounded. Accordingly, 60 grouping of 70 thousand people and this is — almost five divisions of the Wehrmacht, — oppressed at the West without falling into the same trap and could not suffer such losses under any circumstances. And even if it were different, it is a pity to this Medvedev made a serious factual error in the overage of distortion. Although when writing the text it was logical to understand that the numbers did not convey it was quite possible, naturally with maximal knowledge of the issues being covered and attentiveness.

Александр Исаев

Do prove the obvious fact that the Germans, lost no soldiers on the Eastern Front than большее other fronts, said, "statistics are not needed that все не нужна подобная «статистика».

After Elmya Medinsky took a new height, so talking about the Battle of Smolenskiy Front the first time, already in the first months of the victory, we reached parity in losses" (p. 1151). Ни о there was no question of any parity in terms of losses in the summer of 1941. One could simply assume (based on his own introductory theses) that if our final figure is 11.1 million, it is not so, but as before such an introductory can be added as to the kind of logicity; in the summer of 1941 we suffered defeats, and in 1942-1945 we had successes and many prisoners, then most likely, our final losses exceeded the German ones, and about.

The end of the war it was vice versa. The discrepancies with logic and statistics in the Medinsky's book continue: throughout the History of the Occupation of Norway by Germany 38.7 people killed. Capitulation of Greece 1941 — people. Poland. 10,572 people.

To just one section of the Eastern Front front stretching from Karelia to the Black Sea in just three weeks near Moscow from December 6 to December 27, 1941, the German army lost 120,000 people killed" (p. 387) of First, 20 000 Ukrainians; from 300,000 the figure of 120,000, из thousand people is taken цифра 120 тыс. чело-

Three A's: About the book by Vladimir Medvedev "War"

century, speaks of the German army as a whole, and not of one section of the Soviet German front. Medvedev, on the other hand, confidently, raises the level inherited from a git rope (and the Upland research is a product of the Soviet era - with all its pluses and minuses), and narrows the 1126 section to 120,000 for the Army Group Center that fought near Moscow. Secondly, from the point of view of logic and common sense, убий 120,000 people killed 120,000 people. Аяются "Center" seem to be an overestimated figure. After all, there should be two on the German side more wounded and missing. As a result, from about 4 million people, the number of the "Center" in December 1941, by January only 1.5 million should have remained. Especially considering that losses are primarily sustained by the front, and they do not make up one hundred percent of the strength of the division. In fact, the army core of the Soviet Union, why the Soviet offensive in front of the German army of 1942 started at the beginning of 1942 gradually stopped is completely understandable. Most of all, 120 thousand killed in 1941, 1.17 thousand killed in the winter of 1941 by the German researcher Rievman. However, this is the entire German army on the Eastern Front, and not just the German Air Force. And it would be strange in the conditions of evacuation of the industry and the population to have proved sources. For example, the Germanский historian K. Рейнхард cites information that in December the total losses of the GAC Center amounted to 303 thousand people. However, Medinsky gives the reader a more precise figure: 300 thousand people.

He also uses propaganda data in relation to aviation. In particular, he writes: "On the very first day of the war, June 22, 1941, the Germans lost 1300 aircraft. More than any other nation. By the beginning of September 1941, they calculated that the Russians had already shot down the same number of planes with which the Germans started the war" (p. 402). But, however, the agitprop indicated a figure exceeding 3000 downed German aircraft in relation to the, in Kursk Bulge, the outcome of 1943. So, therefore, the same number of other days is not true, even if the agitprop point of view of June 22 was not and could not be the day of the greatest German losses in the air. According to German documents, 22 June 1941, the irretrievable losses (combat and non-combat) of the Luftwaffe amounted to 76 aircraft, 167 machines (that is, including damaged and irreparable ones). By the early September 1941, they calculated that the Russians had already shot down the same number of aircraft with which the German started the war" (p. 402). The author of the Medinsky cites losses for the whole of 1941 from combat contact with 2649 enemy in 2849 aircraft downed.

embossed, 475 damaged and beyond repair, 402 damaged but restored. 402 lost to the state. In World War II with 3,470 aircraft. Until July 21, 1941, 44 German aircraft shot down. Losses. Medvedev's stuff about losses by the German September 1941 could be more serious. Medvedev's stuff about the fact that the Luftwaffe more than other units, that in 1941 is at least something was fine in 1941 is at least something. Sharp and was just bad, which was expressed in the terrible "cauldrons" near Berdiansk, Kiev, etc. One way or another, but with such mistakes as, for example, the transformation of 45th and killed and wounded into 45th, как, how many killed and wounded would not recommend using Medvedev's book as a source of statistical information. Медведского как источник статистических сведений я бы не рекомендовал.

There are also many B's pleasant addition prior to the end of the pages of Volume 1, on pages 578-581, Medvedev diligently reproduces Dr. Foster's nasty fiction about the battle on the island of Rügen for the German boarding school between various Soviet units, its cause and its infant. Medvedev's eye did not catch on the "tank battle" of the 372nd division in Wehrmacht. In the 45th there were no tank battalions in the five divisions, and this whole story is nothing, but a hoax of the historian Dr. Foster, which, Medvedev for some reason in Medvedev's book without thought.

Еще один. Но скуп на это little review, дензии, can say that, on the whole, Medinsky's "War" left a negative impression, since the majority of readers had a great opportunity to get acquainted with the version of the Soviet agitprop earlier. And even now it can be easily done, and moreover, spending much less money than the one that booksellers ask for "War", where the degree of agitprop use is raised to the level of noble madness. No sense and no beauty are also unlikely to be useful to anyone. Ахинея и алогичность также вряд ли кому-то будут полезны.

* * *

After the publication of my critical remarks about Medinsky's "War" on the Internet, I was surprised to learn that the author decided to respond to my small review of, as he put it, blasphemy. Although the goal of reflecting some kind of blasphemy on the book of Vladimir Kostislavovich was not in my thoughts. The essence of my objections is that the work that Medinsky was entrusted with (or that he took on himself) is literally ruined. Medinsky (or, rather, whoever on his own behalf took on this banal and stupid task) made a number of errors and blunders sharply reduced the value of the book, in which an actual attempt was made to convey to the broad masses a generally correct thoughts about the Great Patriotic War. Medinsky responded to my criticism in the form of a table, which he posted on his internet blog (<http://medinskiy-vr.livejournal.com/>).

 to conclude that the author had drifted into the wrong step, «usually» is an unnecessary — generalization from a particular case. Instead of it would be more appropriate to say «were» «были

There were cases when the problem with small arms existed, was recognized, but it was so not as a bite as it is sometimes claimed (one rifle for three). Usually in late 1941 and early 1942 there were fewer rifles than personnel. Both in the militia and in ordinary formations. We had to leave the artillerymen and the rear without weapons for self-defense. This is the theory and war did not deny it. I regret that I am a bit biased in my justification of the situation with small arms. Not a situation со стрелковым оружием? Нисколько.

Николай Медведский never really touched the question why it was necessary to commemorate 28 February 1942 in the book. The real situation with which was explained back in Soviet times. In any case, this happened before 1966, 1967, which Medvedsky wrote on the pages of his book. And it has to be considered a point at the completion of the investigation of A. Zhukov's resolution in the archive "and something else is not a question of the critic does not give examples of facts confirmed by" both sides". This does not mean that there are no examples, for example, the battle of Kurland 1941 in October 1941 near Moscow was an absolute defense of the village of Gorka-Sky in the initial phase of the Battle of Kursk on the southern sector, the professional historians, conveying to the masses the idea of exploits, not only on real a

How can one argue? What to argue about? He says in part that he wants to prove to the «you», that he (Mikhail Gorbachev) is not cheating? That is, it is better for him to put this dirty corruption and go to work.

There is no time to argue with Medvedev; but it is very worthwhile to look at it fully at what kind of myths he suggests «driving into» the heads of fellow citizens. In comparison with the cold Soviet myth, we will see something new. Not only in terms of the defiantly forward form of corruption, but also in person.

And further, through a long series of invasions and revolutions, wars and plagues of the human spirit to the motto: "All people are born equal and free, and by the law, are all endowed with inalienable rights..." From the primitive division of people into genetically, blood-brothers and into socially "strangers" to the notion of the danger of difference and embraced by civilization, precisely because of this, the concept of "other" as a German officer. Yes, life is harder this way. It is easy to (distinguish you, "people" (by skin color) of nose shape, eye shape); the divide between good and evil requires knowledge and. For social could be. For example, Medvedev invites us to go back, backwards, down to the "principle" of psycho-ethics and the psychology, this is called the "reduction" to the law, returning to the most primitive criteria of self-esteem and the methods of social interaction. These are the Comedy Club and Dömy instead of the great Russian culture (this is an outrageous vulgarity (this is everywhere) even in the eighteenth century) instead of the penetrating lyricism of a Russian folk song. That everything becomes completely ready will give one of the many examples of national self-justification is so attested through Medinsky's «Войне» Мединского:

«The lovers of the song about unfortunate Finland say that this small country has lost 10% of its territory, that 130,000 inhabitants were forced to move deep into Finland creating deep social problems and our society is terrible. But, my. Firstly, if you are the head of the Russian state, then you will think first of all about your subjects (what a wonderful choice of terms! Once again, in the 20th century, a similar thought was expressed in a more direct way: юбер дэутсмандзюбер аллзе. Many believed in it. equalized Stalin and Hitler. But are these two phenomena comparable? Can a Persian person accept and understand such a comparison? «Stalin's regime was repressive, but Hitler's regime was perisamikhropik. Can you put them in. Side by side? Patriarch Kirill asks, and a normal person who knows and loves his country will not agree with him» (p. 659). Unfortunately, I do not have the opportunity (p. 659).

Personally ask Yelchin and Mikailovich: personally I should not understand his words? Which надо понимать его слова? Какой from the bloody regime, from the point of view of the pastor of the Church of Christ is it better "repressive" or "misanthropic"? And from what position should the regime of mass-millions of dollars and billions of repressions be considered "philanthropic" or at least "less human-hating"? I can't comprehend this. I can, but I remember a huge gray building in the center of Moscow, the mother of Russian cities. First KGB was the NKVD, then the Gestapo. Then again the NKVD. They were engaged in the same building all the time, killing the same way, tortured, tortured, killed. Does it really matter if it was done out of repressive or misanthropic?

But it is possible that Mr. Medinsky himself felt a certain fragility of the formula voiced above, therefore he presented the readers with “Stalin and Hitler are similar in many ways, but how similar all the tyrants in the world are in a general way. headquarters destroyed the enemy's military industry. And at the same time, they lost the soldiers' lives more than a Stalin's army. Well, how can you popularize them for this?

It's all on the one hand and on the other hand, do it is necessary to save the national prestige of Generalissimo Stalin, and for this, I want to see the number of human losses of the Red Army in every battle, so that this is as small as possible, almost the same as that of the enemy. Is it possible, remaining sane, to resolve such a widespread problem? In good health, you can't. But if you really want to, suck your finger, hard, look at the ceiling, then просто:

near Smolensk, our irreparable losses amounted to 88,867,174 people, and our sanitary 7,280,308 people. Terrible numbers. But even among the Germans, the tank divisions lost half of their personnel and vehicles, the total losses amounted to about half a million people. Here for the first time already in the first months of the war, we began to reach прям» (part 1 of 6).

Within only, the weeks, from 17 December 1941 to December 27, 1941, during the period of fierce fighting near Moscow, the German army lost 220,000 people killed on the Eastern Front. By this way, the first retrievable losses of the Red Army near Moscow for 4 weeks from December 5, 1941 to January 7, 1942.

1942, during the Moscow strategic offensive operation amounted to 140,000. Almost the same number taking into account poorly trained militia. This was no exception: the disparity of losses is already noted above, was outlined even earlier in the battle of Smolensk (pp. 392-393) and in the Professor who is talking about the losses of personnel of the ground forces of Germany (the Wehrmacht) and the combatants of the SS) have long, carefully, repeatedly and, recounted, by years and months, the days and from a company group and there are classic (Пальмарк, Мидлер, Миллер, Гилеброт, Двенмарк, Рейнхардт, Хайнрихс). Of course, no one knows the exact (for one soldier) numbers and no one will ever know. Between the data given by different authors, there is always a certain "clash" of 5-10-15. It arises not only because of errors and inaccuracies in headquarters reports, inevitable in war conditions, but also for methodological reasons (to what period should the number of those who died in front, wounded in hospitals, and who perished, whether to take) in the account of losses of ground personnel of Luftwaffe units and etc.).

Nevertheless, the overall picture has long been beyond dispute. During the Battle of Berlin (in Soviet historiography), in particular, in Krivosheina's book "The Classification of the losses of the Red Army, it lasted from July 10 to September 10, 1941, the total losses of the German ground forces in the entire Eastern sector, from Mjoman, skirt to Mjopassa, amounted to, 376 thousand people. On the entire front, and, not only in the zone of operations of the Army, and the 376 thousand of 376 thousand does not fit the definition of "about half a million". As for the losses of the "GA" (later), in the period under discussion they amounted to a little over 165 thousand people. Alas, there is no need to talk about any parity of losses in the battle of Smolensk, the losses of the Red Army are 60-150 times greater, and this is not a very Krivosheev's figures for granted, which is a very red line to estimate the.

Losses of the 4th Army (of 941 in December 1941) and in the weeks, as the Nagorskiy (Medsinsky) write, the total losses of the GA (общие потери) amounted to 104 thousand people. Total losses, taking into account the wounded, — 3 million. Wars of the 20th century were 2.5-3 times more than the killed. Whereof from what? Killing his life figure of 120,000 killed a Boetoch. And why are the losses of the Krievnoy Eastern Front compared with the losses of the Red Army near Moscow? If we compare with the deliverable values, the total losses of the Krievnoy Eastern Front are 104 thousand people. The parity is then not parity is found in the Red Army. Last 376 thousand people in the Moscow offensive.

The total loss of German troops on the Eastern Front in 1941 was as follows: 380 fighters, 670 ground bombers, 1941 to the 30th of the year:

The fighting started on the night of the Easter on the Eastern front, leaving a dark and gloomy night with no hope of a peaceful end to the fighting. However, we must also take into account the fact that the transport planes shot down in the air or crashed during an emergency landing during the Birland and Dogin, and, of course, to maintain strict anonymity of the methodology, we take into account only the losses of combat aircraft in the narrowest sense of the 1940, года. As you know, each era gives birth to its heroes, personifying the era and creatively shaping the era. However, there can also "heroes" in mutation. In other words, they are generated not by epochs, but by those forces that deform this or that epoch.

«Heroes» in quotation marks are brought to the fore by quite definite forces with quite definite and quite unseemly goals in order to put the public consciousness instead of exciting surprises of the strange, strange thoughts, instead of bold, individual, powerful, and great thoughts and deeds with all sorts of rubbish! Numerous pop stars like Mike Jackson and so.

Public consciousness has different systems of categories, and therefore meets tasks of filling them with given or other values differently. One of the main tasks of public consciousness is to fill it with certain values, and therefore its task is to fill it with certain values. It is the moral life of kitsch heroes of pop art and political life, and another thing is intellectual life, the purpose of which is to denigrate the past, to return to the past, to distort history.

However, these books themselves are both more than an attempt to fix some myths in the mass consciousness about Hufgard's Russia, and, for example, to give rise in the same consciousness to a firm conviction about the benefits of the future of Russia of the policy of the Hefsirolik Keomli and United Russia.

The political schizophrenia of the Kremlin or the struggle of...

The provocative myths of Medinsky in Myths about Russia are a topic of a separate and separate disquisition. And now about the military myths of Medinsky, densely scattered throughout the pages of his book "War Myths of the USSR. 1939-1945".

In an extremely brief essay written at the request of the Maelz press publishing house, it is not possible to dwell on every historical abbreviation of Medinsky's military myth. Medinsky there are secondary exposures in the fact that their complete analysis and exposure will not fit even into a thousand pages. However, the very same political technology of the author of the book can be revealed in a much less political. Собственно, schizophrenia in fact, the majority of the political "Russian elite" is now afflicted with this disease and it does not improve.

With this definition of medical sense of френией schizophrenia is a severe mental illness, characterized by a disruption in the connectivity of mental processes. For schizophrenia, в частности, a bifurcation of consciousness — characteristic can be mind, and в разном разудifferent modes live hostile to each other. This is reflected in the very name of the disease, it is composed of the Greek words shizos "split" and phren — "mind".

This is exactly what we see in Medinsky's books, but especially in his "War Boy on the Cold War", which Medinsky now and then дело

In this, nothing can be said: «В своём Анезюмсантер buddies?»

However, these political schizophrenics are not so stupid - every madness has its own system, and here one can also see a very definite one: anti-Soviet and anti-socialist. However, in the case of Medinsky's book, this system is now and there covered almost by a napoleonic of the USSR.

For example, from the very first lines, the obvious Medinsky's Medinsky's party is about the fact that in 2009 European Union 70-2002 in the celebration with the 70th anniversary of the outbreak of World War II "journal KySemia across about the role of".

The historical atmosphere of "forgetfulness" towards the past is not only in the Kremlin itself, as it is now.

Medinsky is allegedly indignant at the series "Herald Battalion" is historically illiterate and is indecent... But has the Kremlin condemned its creator or not? No, but not at all. Has the State Duma in which Medinsky's party has a Medvedev's majority of members not written to the votes and a very official statement of confidence in this score condemning and protesting against the falsification of our history? What is the point in Sochi?

Have we really been without evidence to present the entire Soviet period in the history of Russia as a solid black streak of unpraiseworthy achievements and successes? The head of the USSR V.I. Stalin is depicted as a GCP tyrant and despot responsible for all the negative processes in the recent history of our Russia, having no merit before Russia and its people. Against the backdrop of all this and the Pervaya.

Battalions' deeds are not being glorified, which do not meet with any opposition from the party of Medinsky. Under Russia's pen and actually encouraged by the Kremlin, to declare an objective depiction of the history of the USSR and Stalin in 1937 a criminal offense at the same time.

Но если определять Сталинизм таким образом — как подавление инакомыслия, — то можно сказать, что нынешние горе-десталинизаторы как раз в этом полностью повторяют того, якобы Сталина, облик которого сами и создали. Именно «десталинизаторы» призывают общество вернуться к сталинским (в их представлении) методам с той лишь разницей, что в 30-е и 40-е годы контроль государства над идеями диктовался суровыми обстоятельствами предвоенного, военного и восстановительного послевоенного периода, а сегодня такой контроль не может быть оправдан ни с какой точки зрения.

Дискуссия объективная, равноправная. Но — запрет!

Главное же заключается в том, что нынешнее общество в целом — несмотря на явственную антисоветскую и антисталинскую пропаганду, фактически по-прежнему на официальном уровне, — относится к Сталину и к советскому периоду истории всё более положительно и сочувственно. Последние независимые и вполне представительные социологические опросы показывают, что курс на «десталинизацию» и «deSovietization» is not supported by 70 to 80% of the population of Russia.

At the same time, people are especially positive about Stalin during the war period, which speaks for itself. People are beginning to understand that Stalin's merits in the war are enormous, that denigrating Stalin and his era means denigrating the life and fate of the heroes and fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers that it possesses. The graphic success of the people of the USSR from the Dnieper to the Volga, the records of Chkalov and the Banner of Liberty.

But the Reich before the flight of Gagarin and the Mir space station. The people don't want to give up their great and glorious history. Isn't this the real reason for the supposedly not democratic 'machines and efforts to denigrate us? And isn't that why the people in the USSR urgently put on themselves, and at the same time the entire 'Medvedev' regime almost Soviet camouflage?

Isn't that why Putin publicly makes statements like 'Here we fought to the death'? Yes, they! Shoot down.

Not you, monsieur, but they are our fathers, and grandfathers, and great-grandfathers, and the banner of Lenin, which Stalin took to the 1941 parade on November 7, 1941 from the Cross of St. George to the Mausoleum, from the people, which the patriots of the Soviet Union supposedly patriotic shows for two

As for the desecration of the Grave of Stalin in Russian history, it has had been precisely defended by the formula: «He accepted Russia with a sword and left it with a mat to be buried». Nevertheless, the way the converse process is incorporated into Russian Field skin motorcycles design already adheres to a certain degree with a certain idea of the field skin motorcycle. bolds to brand new; Medicine, smelling the same far from the best way. The already.

The war "mythology" of Medinsky is false in a quite definite way. Thus, read Medinsky's mention of the Munich conspiracy. Was the reason for the September 1939 the date of the beginning of the German-Polish and not the Second World War? Medinsky admits impressing that the war, was actually started in 1919 in Versailles 1919, the decision of such a peaceful "to warного" до- agreement that carried a but by way to войну.

But who determined the provocative, «бере- menignant how it is a new big way, the, direction of the Versailles "peace мира»?

Medinsky cannot completely find in himself about this, if only because, back in 2003, a book was written on this subject by name — "Russia — and Germany played a role from Versailles. Will Belmont Versailles. Will be the way to clearly State to break the Second World War for the purpose of a direct clash between Russia and Germany и Германия were primarily by America, the figure of the pre-American Russian's Foreign Ministry, M. About Medinsky's statement that Molotov, was appointed People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs of the USSR, allegedly due to "Russian origin" and birth in was allegedly dismissed at because he was a Jew! He lived

Was removed in May 1928 1928 because, because that his pro-British and pro-French foreign policy by the spring of 1940 had suffered a complete collapse. Litvinov did everything for 30 years to quash the USSR and Germany and actually played into the hands of the Anglo-Saxon monarchists. The British, he was replaced by Molotov.

Especially famous Medinsky "describes" the myth of the war. Chronologically, he is from 1941. So, according to Medinsky in 1941 to the allegedly "unfortunate" General Pavlov was only "too literally" following orders from Moscow.

When Medinsky reaches 1945, he "takes" the "society" "stereotype" about a single banner over the Reichstag, Poles, etc.

In fact, almost a week before June 22, General Pavlov assured Moscow that Stalin personally that "the Germans are sitting quietly" and there is no real danger of this. And then...

Scarlet banner familiar from childhood over the "gloomy building" of the Nazi Reichstag was not a "stereotype" as Medinsky Madnesses, it was an exciting and visible image of the Victory.

their opponents. At the same time, it comes too, the point that openly manipulating public consciousness, that includes the work of Саидой Катаришвили "Manipulation of Consciousness by Means of Well-known Names".

Ну-ну...

Presenting himself as a patriot of Russia, Medinsky evaluates as "mythological" both of Stalin's famous toasts of 1949 for the Russian people and to the health of "simple, ordinary, modest people".

Especially vile address was to the people народный избранник's comments by the second toast.

This short table speech by Stalin became an example of a deeply sincere, warm and exciting assessment by the leader of the people for which he leads. However, in the midst of the "introduction of prehistory" one word was torn out of this toast: "Bog's kind and all corners, coming in at the mouth, they so medmed that people were allegedly 'bogs' from Stalin Medinsky himself on page 453 of the book claims that the idea of Stalin's assessment of the leader, for whom the people are dogs, is a curse on «люди — винтики», конечно, во много раз больше».

However, Stalin's toast has been quoted in full in one of the Soviet literature (I myself cited it in my books) and it becomes impossible to simply lie down on the surface of Medinsky's toast.

The political schizophrenia of the Kremlin or the example of...

My Medinsky acts differently in the full agreement with the theme of manipulating consciousness.

On the other hand, he also quotes Stalin's past difficult and several forgetting his statements on page 456, and in the same page 457 that the propaganda was taken 587 of context and then it is stipulated that a Stalin's attitude toward his people, like варивается, что «отношение Сталина к людям, как бессловесный Минтапоссы» reflects his essence and его сущност and that is not the case again. He does something like a compliment to Stalin but Chavnu, that is!

How it is:

«...the same bait's sound, sound and seems to be this expression is in no way applicable to the propagandist or just some hawk's sound like a человек...»

He also takes a passage from the full text of the book that follows immediately after is predominantly for no reason. Medinsky writes that in the newspaper Antonov-Gumenyov Sh. I. Ivanov Bulgakovs and other colleagues "Ivan Vasilyevich Changes His Profession" to work for the... .

Under the reference to the small figure of Sh. I. Ivanov "seemingly" is obvious in fact every thing here is precisely manipulated and the most fully communicated to the reader and the impression is immediate.

The political schizophrenia of the Kremlin or the example of...

the Kremlin's PR people are doing it often enough. For example, a paper report on May 9, they will give ahead and with the Order of the Patriotic War, but they will "forget" to put their proud medals in the USSR's proud the order book of the USSR.

What is the point of this?

Order it seems to be empty? У нас нет проблем, а только провокация!

But a Medvedev's interpretation! So Medvedev seems to give some kind of fact, then he starts confusing reasoning, takes the reader aside, and then again brings him to the topic, but with the conclusion that the history of the USSR is the history of the history of the CPSU; and, not the history of the actions of the Politburo. This, they say, is the era.

History of the people. And the achievements of that period are the achievements of the people. However, Medvedev's one! Yet, starting with Stalin, has raised the question of the way that Medvedev gives us the history of the USSR has always been considered in the USSR precisely as the history of the Soviet people. The war itself was called the Great Patriotic War.

Is the Soviet people against the Nazi? In 1945, and not after the war of the All-Union Communist Party of Bolsheviks? But someone said they were people in 1945 they? And he helps such a way that the people
